

Supporting the Elaboration of Defence White Papers

Defence White Papers

represent a Government's firm commitment to their people to keep the nation safe and protect the way of life for future generations.

Our Approach

Enhance transparency and consolidation of democracy throughout the process of updating and elaborating Defence White Papers (DWP).

Expand the participation and contributions from both within the government (ministries, legislators, parliamentarians) and outside the government (civil society, academia, universities, media).

Stimulate social and political interest for informed discussion, analysis and debate on defence policies and doctrines through a series of nation-wide public roundtables.

Beneficiaries

Our Contribution

Most countries in Latin America and the Caribbean have published or are currently in the process of updating their DWP

DWPs create an opportunity for States to reassess potential internal and external threats that could affect domestic interests and require a newly strategised military response.

The transparent process of elaborating and disseminating a DWP sends a clear message of States commitments to safeguard the values and interests of citizens through an articulated and sound defence policy and to building confidence and transparency in a traditionally "closed" field.

United Nations Regional Centre for Peace, Disarmament and Development in Latin America and the Caribbean (UNLIREC)

UNLIREC forms part of the United Nations Office for Disarmament Affairs (UNODA) and is headquartered in Lima, Peru. UNLIREC is mandated to strengthen the capacity of Member States to achieve sustainable peace and security through disarmament, conventional arms and ammunition control, and non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction. It also provides technical assistance in line with international best practices and standards.
